

SCIENTIST FOUND IN ACID VAT

Dr. Archibald Putnam Gildersleeve, Head Professor of Granny's Candy Shop, was found today in an acid vat. He had been working for 12 years on a new formula for chocolate candy. It was believed that he had finally discovered it when a competitive company pushed him into the vat at Macey's Acid Store on N. Ghoul St. on Saturday, December 17.

S.H.

WHO AM I?

I am five feet tall. I have short brown hair, and Jeannie Strong is one of my best friends. I am the tallest child in our class. I often wear saddle shoes and a silver bangle. I have braces and blue eyes. I am ten years old. Who Am I ??????????

* * * * *
PANDORA'S BOX

Since yesterday, many marvelous things have happened. It appears that all of the harmful pests have disappeared. All of the farmers are having a record crop. The rainfall and the climate seem perfect for each area. Dense, dark jungles have simply vanished; in place of deserts are fertile lands and valuable resource deposits. The world certainly has changed. Poverty has vanished, sickness has also disappeared. Hate, waste, and want of necessities are no more. It seems that all evil has gone "Kaput" out of the window and away from the earth. In evil's absence, happiness, freedom, prosperity, and love have taken over leaving no room for evil to come again. Wars, jealousy and quest for power have gone. This is truly a time for rejoicing.

The North Pole is completely changed. We see a happy sun bather on Byrd's Ice Shelf; where Byrd's Ice Shelf once was is a sparkling beach, with mounds of granulated sugar. People venture out as far as they wish, in what were once shark-infested waters.

We look to the South Pole; instead of that "would-be" desolate Ice-cap, we see a series of tropical islands. The air is full of the constant murmur of the clear blue water resounding on the shores. Not far away, in the snow-covered mountains, lies a tiny village nestled into the hills. In the background we see a valley, full of contented skiers.

Asia, which was for the most part a poverty stricken area, is now swelling with prosperity. From the Siberian Plain to the tip of India, farmers work diligently in their fields, growing such crops as corn, wheat, oats, and rice. The people no longer use animals for power and wooden plow shares. They use machinery, just as we do now. They no longer live solely on a diet of rice. They now raise cattle and poultry.

Let us look at Africa; for example, the scorching Sahara Desert. It is now a part of a huge plateau covering the whole African Continent. Foot on foot of rich top soil lies between the surface and the clay. Rivers run everywhere. What was once snake-inhabited jungle is now rich farm land. Beautiful birds of Paradise fill the air with bright colors and melodious song.

The rest of the world also has been changed, made more beautiful and made a better place to live in. One might wonder why and how these wonderful things happened. Because all evil fled back to Pandora's famous box, and are sealed up forever. Unless some curious soul like Pandora opens it again we shall be safe from evil until infinity.

KATRINA
Chapter One

Katrina lives in Spain though she was born in Germany. Her name is German. She has five brothers. When she was only one, her oldest brother ran away to sea. By the time she was two, her father had become a very rich man. They lived in a huge mansion with many servants. Among the servants was Tela, Katrina's nursemaid. Tela always took Katrina walking after her nap.

One Wednesday Katrina's mother went shopping. While she was getting ready, Katrina came running into the room and asked in her baby voice if she could go to the market too. Her mother said she could go if she promised to be a good girl. Her mother stepped into the large hall which was at least fifty feet across and called Tela in a hard, shrill voice that almost frightened poor little Katrina to death. Tela came running as fast as she could. Katrina's mother told Tela to take Katrina and get her dressed in her blue dress and white